

The Voyage of Survival

*Corona came, and put the world on pause,
As life stood still, while its spread its claws,
Fear marked the hearts, hopes were stalled,
Lives were endangered, as Corona sprawled,*

*We bid farewell to loved ones with heavy heart,
Their sudden departure left imperishable scars,
Lockdown was within, causing dense despair,
Greeting, meetings were deeds to be beware*

*Behind the grey cloak, there was colourful rainbow,
Memorise were made to remain in eternal wallow,
We sang we ate we played in the golden rays,
The ticking clock was not in sight, as we get on with our days*

*Accept the fluster, time to move on,
Muster the courage, so we start ruling on.
The flowers of hope have now started to bloom,
Spreading a new ray of sunshine, taking away the gloom.*
